The Last Unicorn: A Frontline Report on Wildlife Protection in Laos and Vietnam

William deBuys
Author and Conservationist

Abstract forthcoming

William deBuys’s eight books include The Last Unicorn: A Search for One of Earth’s Rarest Creatures (2015), A Great Aridness: Climate Change and the Future of the American West (2011), The Walk (2008), Salt Dreams (1999), and River of Traps (a 1991 Pulitzer finalist). He was a 2008-2009 Guggenheim Fellow. As a conservationist, he has helped protect more than 150,000 acres in New Mexico, Arizona, and North Carolina. From 2001 to 2005, he chaired the Valles Caldera Trust, which administers the 89,000-acre Valles Caldera National Preserve in New Mexico. He is a director of the Liz Claiborne Art Ortenberg Foundation, which funds wildlife protection internationally, and he lives and writes on a small farm in northern New Mexico.

Wednesday, October 28, 2015
12:00 Noon
Room 203, Luce Hall, 34 Hillhouse Avenue