

Natural Resources of Myanmar

Zo Tum Hmung

Executive Director, Ethnic Nationalities Affairs Center (ENAC), Union of Burma

In order to establish sustainable peace in Myanmar, it is important to agree among the political stakeholders in Myanmar especially the ethnic armed organizations and the government of Myanmar on the natural resource governance - ownership , management, revenue sharing, and social and environmental impacts.

In September 2017, the Ethnic Nationalities Affairs Center-ENAC published this paper (please find here - http://www.burmaenac.org/wp-content/uploads/2017/09/ENAC\_NaturalResourceofMyanmarBurma\_English.pdf-.)

The paper has two case studies: natural gas in Arakan State and Jade in Kachin State. Established in 2013, ENAC is an independent resource, training, and education center supporting the peace process and development of democratic institutions in Myanmar (<http://www.burmaenac.org>).

Zo Tum Hmung is the Executive Director of the Ethnic Nationalities Affairs Center (ENAC), Union of Burma. In 2013, he completed his MPA from Harvard University's Kennedy School . He was born in Chin State, Burma.

Wednesday, January 17

12:00 Noon

Room 203, Luce Hall, 34 Hillhouse Avenue